

I. IN THE ABSTRACT

In order that the Abstract better conform to the allowed claims, please delete the existing Abstract and replace the same with the new Abstract set forth on the following, separate page:

ABSTRACT

A man-portable, tent-like enclosure having a shape defined by a frame with an enclosure exterior surface connected thereto, the enclosure exterior surface bearing a first camouflage pattern. A non self-supporting covering is removably disposable over the enclosure exterior surface so as to be supported by the enclosure. The covering bears a second camouflage pattern on a first covering surface, the second camouflage pattern being different from the first camouflage pattern. The covering has a second covering surface opposing the first covering surface, and further has a shape closely conforming to the shape of the portable enclosure so as to surround and cover substantially all of the enclosure exterior surface.